Hi Everyone!

I have been meaning to send out a "hello" to touch in and give an update on how things are going!

After a very intense 4-5 weeks, we are now in that cruising mode of enjoying this incredibly organized, cleaned, and repaired property while we wait to sell! We have listed with friends Denise Schank & Jennifer Peckinpaugh, (Village Real Estate) which has been a great relief from selling by owner. We have decided to leave our kitchen unit here as an opportunity for another chef to step into this unique and awesome set up. Amador county is so ripe for new talent and there are many chefs looking for a new creative venue. The container is also considered a legal ADU unit with full infrastructure, so the creativity is not limited to food! Please check with Denise and Jennifer if interested in more information on our property.

That word "creative" comes to mind a lot in our personal daily lives as it also means "taking action" which is the only way to live a rich, joyful, and expansive life! We are looking forward to creating a new lifestyle 5 hours north of here in the near future!

Speaking of future, The Future Starts Now Nonprofit is operating an incredibly gorgeous RV park up where we are headed in Callahan called Rodney's Paradise Park. It is so breath takingly unique and serene. There are 8 fully equipped sites available, plus restrooms and laundry. Also tent sites along the creek. The sweet town of Etna is just up the road with amazing dining/libations and a bakery that rivals Andrae's. Marble Mountains/Russian Wilderness/Trinity Alps offer incredible hiking trails where mountain creeks + lakes are flush with water. Scott Creek runs through the rv property and is just stunning. We hope to be up there soon to help Sean continue creating the ultimate nature experience, and we sure hope all of you feel inspired to come see another gorgeous part of California! Check out @rodneys_paradise_park to see incredible photography by Sean. And come up to see for yourselves!

We will be participating in the Farms of Amador dinner event this Sunday with an auction item! I'll be helping Daniel D'Agostini and Ron Antone create (there it is again 😊) an amazing brunch on Daniel's biodynamic farm Abbondanza in June. It will be my last catering in Amador and it will benefit an incredible organization. It's going to be a fabulous day! We wish you a wonderful summer season ahead and send you so much love/gratitude and admiration. I read something recently that I can't help sharing. Living in the moment, embracing each day as a gift is why it is called "present".

Much love + light!!

Lucy
